Get Fit for Business

A healthy workforce helps to achieve a healthy business. Providing high-quality occupational health advice is a key part of managing the well-being of people at work...and that's exactly what we do.

Our Approach

ASP Occupational Health uses an evidence based approach to provide advice on the effective management of the health of your workforce.

Our Service

At ASP Occupational Health we offer a truly comprehensive service. Our experience tells us that all aspects of employees' well-being are crucial in maintaining a healthy workforce. Whether it's physical or mental health, or understanding the social aspects of well-being, our experienced occupational health professionals are able to offer specialist advice.

Our Staff

Our multi-disciplinary team have the expertise to really boost the health of your organisation. Our staff have experience working in the NHS and commercial settings and have a range of relevant qualifications to compliment their knowledge. Working with our specialist occupational health service you can be confident that the health and well-being of your staff will be enhanced.

A Healthy Balance...

Helping employees achieve the right balance between health and work is at the heart of our approach to supporting a healthy workforce.

Work Health Assessment

Our experienced occupational health professionals assess the health of an individual and their compatibility to the working environment, identifying any health issues which may require adjustments to the workplace to enable them to carry out their role safely. This is supported by the provision of ongoing health surveillance and well-being programmes.

Managing Sickness

We realise that, despite everybody's best efforts, it is sometimes just not possible to prevent sickness. We have a successful manager referral process to support both the manager and the employee, giving advice on short and long term sickness absence with the aim of ensuring a safe and supported return to the workplace.
